(d) if so, the number of bodies that privatised operation and management of water supply as on October, 2001; and

(e) whether free potable water will be continue to be provided to drought hit areas and also details of the funds allotted and spent for it during last three years, State-wise and year-wise?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINSITRY OF WATER RESOURCES (MS. BIJOYA CHAKRAVARTY): (a) and (b) No specific report has been prepared in consultation with the world Bank envisaging a role to private sector including multinationals in the country's water wealth.

(c) and (d) Since urban water supply and sanitation are State subjects, the Central Government is not monitoring the involvement of multi-national companies by the State Governments to improve their existing water and sewerage networks. Though some State Governments are making efforts to involve the private sector, yet no successful privatisation has been reported so far.

(d) Potable water (Drinking water) is a State Subject and the scheme to provide the drinking water to rural habitations are planned, sanctioned and implented by State Governments. Government of India, however, supplements the efforts of State Governments by providing funds under Accelerated Rural Water Supply Programme (ARWSP) & Prime Minister's Gramodaya Yojana (Drinking Water Supply) PMGY (DWS). Further, the relief to drought hit areas is provided under Calamity Relief Fund and there is no specific provision made or funds allocated for potable water.
